men, Irishmen, Septehmen, Frenchmen, Germans, and Seandavians must be put on the same footing as the Chinese Coolies, he confounds all disliketions, and, of course without intending ft, libels almost the entire white population whose blood is inherited from the races he names. All the immigration from Europe to-day assimilates at once with its own blood on this soil, and to place the Chinese Coolies on the same footing is to shut one's eyes to all the instincts of human nature and all the teachings of history.

Fourth—1s it not inevitable that a class of men living in this degraded and filthy condition, and on the poorest of food, can work for less than the American laborer is entitled to receive for his daily toil? Put the two classes of labor side by side and the cheap servile labor pulls down the more manly toil to its level. The free white labors pulse could company to the content of the content more manly toil to its level: The free wh't I abover never could compete with the slave labor of the South. In the Chinaman the white laborer finds only another form of servile competion—insome aspects more revolting and corrupting than African slavery. Whoever contends for the unrestricted immigration of Chinese Coolies contends for that system of toil which blights the prospects of the white laborer—dooming him to starvation wages, killing his ambition by rendering his struggle hopeless, and ending in a plodding and pittable poverty. Nor is it a truthful answer to say that this danger is remote. Remote it may be for Mr. Garrison, for Boston, and for New England, but it is instant and pressing on the Pacific out it is instant and pressing on the Pacific slope. Already the Chinese male adults the white voters of California, and it is conceded that a Chinese emigrant can be placed in San Francisco for one-half the amount required to transport a man from the Mississippi Valley to the Pacific coast, and for one-third what it requires for a New Yorker or New Englander to reach California or Oregon. The late Caleb Cushing, who had carefully studied the Chinese question ever since his mission to Peking in 1842, maintained that unless resisted by the United States the first general famine in China would be followed by an emigration to California that would swamp the white race. I observe that a swamp the white race. I observe that a New England newspaper—I especially re-gret that such ignorance should be shown in New England—says it is only "a strip" on the Pacific that the Chinaman seeks for cestigation; from whose report I have already dotted, Mr. T. W. Jackson, a man of high character, who had traveled extensively in the East, testified that his in California they would come in enormous numbers, because the population of China is practically inexhaustible." Such indeed, is the unbroken testimony of all who are entitled to express an opinion. The decision of Congress on this matter therefore becomes of the very last importance. Had it been in favor of Chinese immigration, with the encouragement and protection which that would have implied, it requires no vivid imagination to foresee that the great slope be ween the Sierras and the Pacific would be the emigrating ground for the Chinese Empire. So that I do not at all exaggerate when I say that on the adoption or rejection—of the policy passed upon by Congress, hangs the fate of the Pacific Slope—whether its labor shall be that of American freemen or servite Mongolians. If Mr. Garrison in California they would come in en servile Mongolians. If Mr. Garriso

THE GREENBACKERS

And the Organization of the Next Congress.

West Virginia Counted on for 1880.

WASHINGTON, February 22 .- It was set party in the next Congress. The Repre to-day a thorough organization, and have pledged themselves to stand together in that organization in the next Congress. The exact language of their resolution which was offered by Congressman-elect De La Matyr, is as follows:

"Resolved, That we now pledge our selves that we will stand together in the National Party Organization in the organization of the next House of Repre-

This was adopted unanimously, by a ising vote of twelve Congressmen-elect, the were present at to-day's conference. Chese twelve were: Messrs. Murch and add, of Maine; E. Moody Boynton, of Various schemes to reliant Massachusetts; Seth H. Yocum and Hendrick B. Wright, of Pennsylvanis; De La Matyr, of Indiana; Forsythe, of Illinois; Ford, of Missouri; Weaver and precises and are dutation to these, Chairman Dewees, of the National Executive Committee, has written pledges from nine more, most of whom will be here before the Conference adjourns, promising to support the National party organized. In other words twenty-one members of the next House stand pledged to act together as the representatives of a third party, and to contest the organization of the next House.

The full significance of this is simply that these twenty-one men can dictate the organization of the next House, and very largely shape its legislation if they hold together and are properly led. Every one of the gentlemen in attendance at the conference now sitting asserts most positively that the National Congressmenelect will hold together, and that they are parties; and in addition to these. Chan elect will hold together, and that they are not mistaken in their claim of twenty-one were not with us, that I confess I was worried. Now, I am sure that rising vote to-day meant business."

"Our action to-day," said another, to be a mob, and have become an organized party, with a million and a quarter of votes behind us. This is the entering wedge which will disrupt both of the old parties." "Po-you intend to nominate candidates for the offices of the next House?" was asked of another. "Most certainly we do," was the reply. "We shall nominate our men, and stand by them. Either of the other two parties can vote for them if they want to." "Will you nominate a candidate for the next Presidency?" "Undoubtelly. Why should we not? And I tell you we shall elect our candidate. We shall cary Maine and Massachusetts, Ohio, Illinois and Iowa, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and nearly all the Southern States."

The managers of the Conference showed their misdom, to-day by getting down to business at once, and doing what they had to do without wrangling or delay. A temporary organization was effected, with De La Matyr in the chair. On motion of Mr. his children. As with a family so with a nation: the same instinct of self-preservation exists, the same right to prefer the interest of our own people, the same duty to exclude that which is corrupting and dangerous to the Republic!

Sixth—The outery that we are violating our treaty obligations is without any foundation. The article on emigration in the treaty has not been observed by China for a single hour since it was made. All the testimony taken on the subject—and it has moved concurrence in the Senate amends ments. Wilson, of Wast Virginia, wanted to have it go to a Committee of Conference, and asserted that the House would blunder it! passed it in its present shape. Harry White thought the House had better seljourn than to pass this bill, and made a motion to that effect. Luttrell, of California, called attention to the fact that the opposition to this bill came from the Republican side. "All right," shouted Harry White, "I am opposed to this bill, and I don't care who knows it." His motion to adjourn was lost by a vote of 113 to 01. He then moved to lay the bill on the table, which motion was defeated by 140 to 95. The Senate amendments were then concurred in without a divison, and the bill was passed.

The addresses are regarded as proof of the tendency of opinion throughout the country. Mr. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, in reply argued that resimption was not an accomplished fact, because the banks had not resumed, and there was but one place in the country where a citizen could get gold for greenbacks, and then he could not get them in sums of less than $50.

The House was not in a humor to do much on financial subjects, and after a discussion the bill and amendments were laid on the table by a vote of 141 to 110; and that probably puts an end to all financial legislation for this session. THE REVENUE BILL.

The friends of the bill to amend the in The friends of the bill to amend the in-ternal revnue laws succeeded in getting up that measure to-day. When it came back from the Senate several days ago, it necessarily went to the Speaker's table, and under the complex rules of the House it could not be reached, except by one of it could not be reached, except by one of three ways: First, by unanimous consent, which was not likely to be obtained; second, by suspension of the rules, which could not be made except on Monday, and third, by getting a morning hour, for it is only after a morning hour that a motion can be entertained to go to business on the Speaker's table.

When the motion to take up the legistative appropriation bill was made to-day, it was antagonized by the demand for the regular order, which was the morning hour. There were two influences at work in favor of the latter. One was the friends of the Chinese immigration bill, and the other was the friends of the revenue bill. a vote of 139 to 117, decided to have a morning hour. The morning hour having been disposed, the business on the Speaker's table was taken up. In course of time the Revenue Bill was reached, and its enemies began immediately to throw inpediments in its way. Tucker, of Virginia, wanted to non-concur and ask a Committee of Conference. In antagonism to this motions to adjourn were made and roll-calls were ordered for the purpose of consuming time. As the majority would not adjourn, another legislative tactic was resorted to, of demanding the reading of the entire bill.

As this would have taken at least a As this would have taken at least an hour and a half, compromises were suggested, and it was at last agreed that the bill should go over until Monday at ten o'clock, to which time a recess was taken. The amendments and controversy are, first, the restoration of the tax on matches; second, the distinction made between classes of rectifyers; third, the exemption of banks from taxation; and fourth, the date at which the provisions of the bill shall take effect. Upon all these the year and pay votes will be demanded. The other amendments have been concurred in other amendments have been concurred in
